

The Institution of Engineering and Technology presents

Devon & Cornwall Network

Plymouth Breakwater – ‘The Great National Undertaking’

By
Nigel Overton

Plymouth City Museum and Art Gallery

Nigel is the Museum's Maritime Heritage Officer.

His talk explores the pioneering Plymouth Breakwater; conceived in the late 18th century and designed in the early 19th century - A structure that took well over 30 years to complete. The talk will look at the Breakwater's raison d'être, its design, the engineers involved and the method of its construction.

Non-members are welcome to this free event

Tea / coffee is available from 1830

Further details from:

Steve O'Mara ☎ 01752 325933 (W) somara@theiet.org

Wed 14th September

Harrison Building,
Exeter University, EX4 4QF